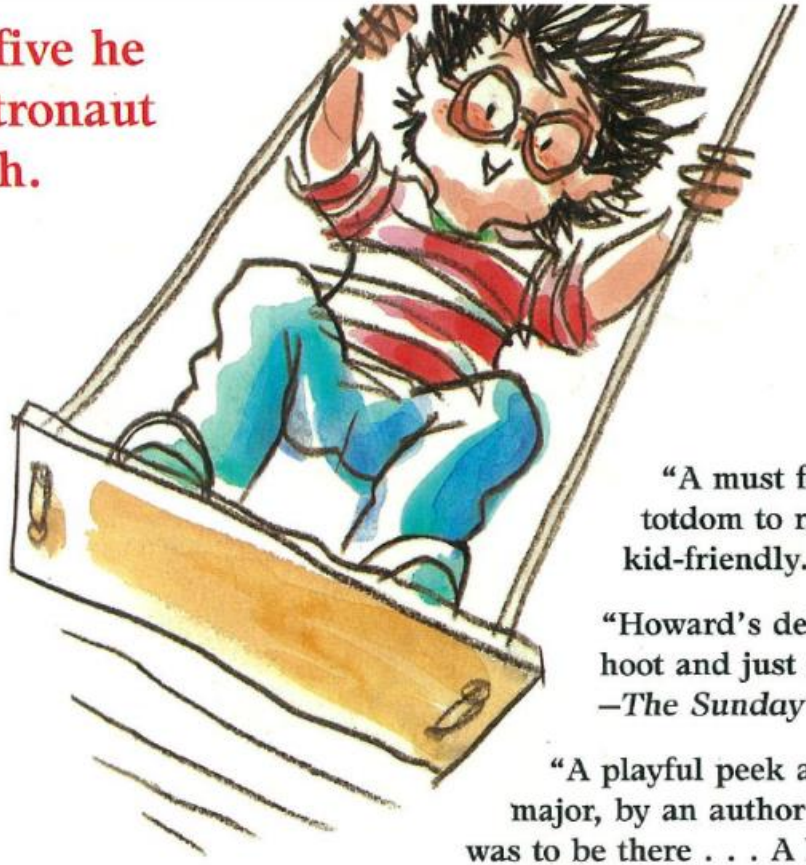
Some things never change.

When Jeremy was five he wanted to be an astronaut or a cowboy or both. And he had a best friend—Mark. But now he's six. . . .



From the creator of

Cosmo Zooms

"A must for kids passing the threshold from totdom to real childhood . . . this fun book is kid-friendly."—Copley News Service

"Howard's delightfully dippy illustrations are a hoot and just as much fun as the text."
—The Sunday Daily News (Halifax, Nova Scotia)

"A playful peek at an age when every change seems major, by an author who obviously remembers how it was to be there . . . A book that will appeal especially to young boys."—The Union Democrat (Sonora, California)
